

PICTORAL MAPS

Have a look at this piece of art called 'The Island' ...it is a map of London by Stephen Walter

At first, it looks like any old map...but when you look closer you can see lots of little comments and names and drawings about the places on the map... watch the short video clip provided too to understand further.

Task:

Draw your own map of Barrow, Ulverston, Kendal....or any other place you want...it could be a fictional place or made up? Add funny comments and drawings about different areas of the place. It could be comments about the type of people or friends (or enemies!!!) that live there.

Here is an example using colour
